1. The power plant of the Jubilee Mine of the Western Bohemian Coal Mines at Zbouch (Zwug - N50/P93), which is located 10-15 km southwest of Pilsen, was expanded pursuant to the Five-Year Plan in order to supply power to the area between Pilsen and Domazlice. This power station is subordinated to the Czech Power Works in Prague.
  2. New installations were erected by Teplotechna, National Corporation at Domazlice, which also adapted the original equipment at the power station. The following units were built:
    - a. New boiler plant with four steam boilers.
    - b. Two chimneys for the plant, one 50 m high, the other 75 m high.
    - c. A spare chimney for the plant, 40 m high.
    - d. A pipeline for steam from the boiler plant to the building housing the steam turbine.
  3. This power station now supplies power to all large industrial plants which do not have their own power plants and eventually will service smaller plants as well.
